Loves Labours Lost is one of William Shakespeares early comedies, believed to have been written in the mid-1590s for a performance at the Inns of Court before Queen Elizabeth. It follows the King of Navarre and his three companions as they attempt to foreswear the company of women for three years of study and fasting, and their subsequent infatuation with the Princess of Aquitaine and her ladies. In an untraditional ending for a comedy, the play closes with the death of the Princesss father, and all weddings are delayed for a year. The play draws on themes of masculine love and desire, reckoning and rationalization, and reality versus fantasy. Though first published in quarto in 1598, the plays title page suggests a revision of an earlier version of the play. While there are no obvious sources for the plays plot, the four main characters are loosely based on historical figures. The use of apostrophes in the plays title varies in early editions, though it is most commonly given as Loves Labours Lost. The historical personages portrayed and the political situation in Europe relating to the setting and action of the play were familiar to Shakespeares audiences. Scholars suggest that the play lost popularity as these historical and political portrayals of Navarres court became dated and less accessible to theatergoers of later generations. The plays sophisticated wordplay, pedantic humour and dated literary allusions may also be reasons for its relative obscurity, as compared with Shakespeares more popular works. Loves Labours Lost was staged rarely in the 19th century, but it has been seen more often in the 20th and 21st centuries, with productions by both the Royal Shakespeare Company and the National...
